

Oxford Introductions to Language Study

Series Editor H.G.Widdowson

Stylistics

Peter Verdonk

OXFORD

Contents

Preface	ix
SECTION I
Survey	I
1 The concept of style	3
Features of style: a newspaper headline	4
Style as motivated choice	5
Style in context	6
Style and persuasive effect	7
Conclusion	9
2 Style in literature	11
Text type and style	11
Text type and function	12
Conclusion	16
3 Text and discourse	17
The nature of text	17
The nature of discourse	18
Textual and contextual meaning	19
The headline revisited	20
The context of literary discourse	21
The communicative situation in literary discourse	22
Conclusion	27
4 Perspectives on meaning	29
The double meaning of perspective	29
Perspective in narrative fiction	30
Stylistic markers of perspective and positioning	34

Deixis	35
Given and new information	37
Ideological perspective	38
Conclusion	40
5 The language of literary representation	41
Perspective in third-person narration	41
Speech and thought representation	45
Conclusion	53
6 Perspectives on literary interpretation	55
Literary criticism	55
Interpreting a complete poem	57
Substantiation by analysis	58
Literary interpretation revisited	62
Conclusion	64
7 Stylistics and ideological perspectives	67
Social reading and ideological positioning	68
Incorporation of literary criticism into linguistic criticism?	74
Critical Discourse Analysis (CDA)	74
Conclusion	78
SECTION 2
Readings	79
SECTION 3
References	109
SECTION 4
Glossary	117